

The Saks Stores' News for Tomorrow.

Ladies' and Misses' Suits.

Five Ladies' Tan Covert Cloth Suits, made with Double-breasted Jackets and Plain Tailor-made Skirts; nicely lined. If we had anything like all sizes we wouldn't budge the price a penny, for they are most desirable Suits. Worth $10.50, for Six Dollars.

Six Misses' Gray and Tan Half Tight-fitting Suits, jackets lined with light-colored taffeta silk; skirts lined with percaline; both jacket and skirt are heavily braided with narrow black braid. Very stylish Suits, thoroughly made. Worth $18.75, for Twelve Seventy-Five.

Second Floor, East, Elevators.

Children's Dresses.

There's only one or two of a size left in any of these lots—and that's the sole and only reason why the prices are "remnants."

This Entire Page is Devoted to the Remnants.

Do you fully comprehend the motive and meaning of these weekly Remnant Sales? Do you appreciate of how much importance it is to us that all the odds and ends and broken sizes and small lots and short lengths be closed out quickly and completely?

Instead of being undesirable—they are mainly the most desirable lines in the house. Being those very things which your best judgment has selected and purchased at full price. Thus are they "remnants."

Just how in earnest we are regarding their speedy sale is voiced in every price quotation—which is but a fraction, only, of the original, regular, worth price.

Ladies' Neckwear.

Stocks, Jabots and Bows—45 of them and all different—worth $1, $1.25 and $1.50. Isn't it a great choice for—

50c.

75c. Liberty Silk Bows—there's no way to avoid these dainty pieces getting crushed. Costly mishaps to us—

39c.

50c. and 60c. English Squares, some plain, some embroidered—less than twenty. Choice—

35c.

First Floor, West.

Handkerchiefs.

We ask you not to judge of the value by the price—but there are 9 dozen odds and ends of lots of Ladies' Handkerchiefs; hemstitched some; colored bordered others—some others different still. Worth two and three times the remnant price.

3 cents Each.

50c. and 60c. Pure Linen Handkerchiefs, slightly soiled from handling. Choice of them for
